The NO PLASTIC commitment

Natural materials are the best for people, the environment and the animals. We are strongly aware that plastic products are a danger to the nature, especially to the animals. Plastic ends up in the oceans where it endangers sea animals. Sadly many of the sea creatures die because they mistake pieces of plastic with food. And through the food chain, plastic also comes into our body.

That's why 99 % of our products contain NO plastic.

Nature's Design

The principle

Our quest for the most energizing and harmonious design principle has lead us to the proportions of the Golden Ratio, which are – quite literally – Nature's Design, and to the powerful symbol of the Flower of Life.

Years ago, when we first saw Japanese scientist Masaru Emoto's pictures of water crystals, showing the difference which intention makes on the structure of water, we were very impressed. What fascinated us most at Nature's Design was the positive change of the water's structure, which arises from the conscious use of forms which are in harmony with the design principle of the natural world. Since then, a fascination with water and form has stayed with us.

That is what Nature's Design stands for today: elegant, close to nature, and helpful products of quality for everyday use – and for the well-being of the body, the mind, and the soul.

The original source of life

Water

Anyone who has ever taken a drink from a mountain creek knows from his own experience the virtues of fresh spring water. At home, the water coming from the tap is no longer as tasty or as energizing. No wonder, when you think of the long distances, the processing, and the environmental pollution that the cool water has been subjected to on its journey to you. In order to document "visually", how deeply the products alter the structure of water, before-and-after photographs are taken of water crystals from all products. Test results come from the E. F. Braun laboratory in Uttingen, Switzerland. All water samples were photographed using the procedure developed by Masuru Emoto.

Every sample taken from the products shows highly-positive alterations with very fine, symmetrical crystalline structures. These changes, created and supported by our design components (Golden Ratio, Flower of Life, carefully-selected materials), give the water a fresh, agreeable, unadulterated, and natural flavor – as close to nature as you can get.

Before

Normal tap water is weakened by the unnaturally high pipe pressure and the flow in said pipes.

After

A 3 minutes stay in the Water Pitcher Cadus is enough to improve weakened tap water.

The survey results come from the laboratory EF Braun, CH-3628 Uttigen, Switzerland Water crystals photographed in accordance with the procedure developed by M. Emoto.

The Golden Ratio

Since antiquity, the underlying proportions of the Golden Ratio have served as the epitome of beauty and aesthetics. Even today, this perfect proportion can be found in art, in architecture, in design – and elsewhere.

The Golden Ratio is evident everywhere in nature, which is why we use it as the guiding principle in the design of our products. It arises from the equality of proportions, when the relationship between the larger and the smaller part is the same as that between the whole and the larger part. This ratio, this formula – the phi number from mathematics – is 1.618.

All glass and porcelain products are carefully conceived in accordance with the Golden Ratio, making every piece genuinely pleasing to the eye and energetically in alignment with the flow of life force energy.

The Fibonacci numbers sequence in Nature

The Fibonacci sequence of numbers is based on this same principle as the Golden Ratio, and describes the characteristics of growth processes which can be found in nature, for instance in the leaf and flower position of plants. This arises, for example, in left and right handed spirals with a ratio of 8 to 13, or 21 to 34 (all numbers in the Fibonacci sequence.) When dividing these numbers the result is always 1.618, which is known as "Phi" or the Golden Ratio.

Each individual core in a sunflower basket belongs to a left-handed and a right-handed spiral. The remarkable thing is that the number of spirals are without any exception only adjacent numbers of the Fibonacci numbers sequence. In sunflowers for example, you find always spiral combinations of 21/34, 34/55, 55/89, and especially in large sunflowers also 89/144 cores. This principle also applies to daisies, pine cones, cabbage, pineapples ...

Fibonacci numbers sequence:

$1+1=2$, $1+2=3$, $2+3=5$, $3+5=8$, $5+8=13$...
 $21+34=55$, $34+55=89$, $55+89=144$...

Ratio between the two numbers in Fibonacci sequence is always 1,62 which is the Golden Ratio.

$34:21=1,62$ $55:34=1,62$ $89:55=1,62$

The Flower of Life

Prototype for creation

This powerful symbol – another expression of what is sometimes referred to as “Sacred Geometry”, is found in many cultures and religions – and also in the products. And for good reason. In its simple beauty and perfection, it is a symbol for the perpetual process of creation and, in the process, contributes to the harmonious reorganization or “structuring” of water. The Flower of Life consists of numerous overlapping circles. The starting point is the circle in the center. Represented in this circle is a basic, geometrical structure, which reveals that originally, all life sprang from a single source. Keyword: cell division. Cell division proceeds until every creature has achieved its appropriate and harmonious form. As this symbol is utilized in products, water held in these products remembers this “original code” through the influence of the Flower of Life. Water once again arranges itself symmetrically as it corresponds to its basic structure, the hexagon. And this same, original, hexagonal form is found in the Flower of Life!

Since all our products are created from the Golden Ratio, you will get revitalised water from all of them. But with the Flower of life on the bottom there is also opportunity to enrich the water with additional information. There are 4 different Flowers of life and they work as spices – they make revitalised water even better and richer. Colours do have a variation of different impacts on the human being and arouse emotions and associations. The flower is burned from the outside at 600 °C.

Variations

Flower of life

You can select the right flower of life for yourself intuitively - which attracts you most or maybe the following information will help you.

Gold (24-carat gold)

This variation with the real gold is the most popular all over the world. The gold is known for its energetic power throughout history. That is why this flower enriches the revitalised water with lifeforce energy.

Happy

Looking at the rainbow makes us happy. Rainbow colours have positive affect on us since each vibrates with it's own resonance. That is why this flower enriches the water with optimism, with a positive attitude towards the world and ourselves.

White

White colour is known for its purity. It is associated with the good, with honesty, beginning, innocence and perfection. This flower will help you broaden your perception and will make you feel more open for the new opportunities and suggestions.

Platinum

There is only 0,005 parts per milion of platinum in the Earth's crust. Since it is an extremely rare metal on our planet people who posses it should be very proud. That is why this flower is good for strenghten self confidence and love towards ourself.

Natures Design - products in harmony with nature

Our products are exclusively based on natural raw materials such as quartz sand, limestone, quartz, kaolin, feldspar, clay, wood, cork and caoutchouc.

From these natural raw materials we manufacture our products made of glass, porcelain, earthenware, wood, cork and rubber.

Nature's design is keen to ensure that all products and new product developments from these natural and sustainable raw materials are produced ecologically, so that they are almost 100% endlessly recycled like glass and ceramics, or be compostable and naturally degraded.

Organic plastic used for our products is 100 % bio-degradable and can be put on the compost.

Cleaning

Glassware products are best cleaned by hand, using mild, natural detergents or citric acid (such as lemon water or distilled white vinegar) if residues remain. The Flower of Life symbols on the bottom are durable if cared for gently. Products without the Flower of Life symbol are dishwasher safe.

The wooden caps and the cork cover have to be cleaned with a damp cloth, and never under running water or in a dishwasher.

The design of the cup Mythos, as with all our glassware, is made using the "natural law according to the golden ratio". This mathematical model – found almost universally in nature – is often referred to as "Sacred Geometry", because it is the geometry of life. Using the Mythos cup for drinking water and other liquids increases the biological value and improves flavor. The cup Mythos is specifically designed for intensive use and safety, so it is suitable for children as well as commercial use.

Drinking Straw Calamus

The vortex, a natural phenomenon, underlies the design of the “Calamus” drinking straw. Because of a fine spiral cut into the narrow glass tube, any liquid that passes through it acquires a powerful vortex motion. As seen in nature – tornadoes, for example, or wildly-flowing rivers or ocean waves – the vortex action increases the intensity of the energy. The delicate structure of the hand-blown drinking straw takes its shape from the Golden Ratio.

For children over 6 years.
